

THE CORALLYN NEWMAN PRIZE

The prize was established in 2006 by Corallyn Newman to acknowledge students graduating from the University of Canterbury who were formerly pupils of Christchurch Girls' High School. Corallyn Newman was a teacher at the School from 1969 to 2000. The prize is made in conjunction with the awarding of the right to wear the Joan Prisk gown at the April graduation ceremony, in recognition of a former Lady Principal of the School.

1. The prize shall be known as The Corallyn Newman Prize.
2. The prize shall be awarded each year to the student selected by the Principal of Christchurch Girls' High School to wear the Joan Prisk gown at a graduation ceremony in April.
3. The value of the Prize in each year shall be in accordance with decisions made by the University of Canterbury Foundation.
