

SUMMER SCHOOL Preliminary PROGRAMME 2025-26

As of 10 September 2025

Faculty of Law

PLEASE read the following prior to submitting an application for a LAW 300 level Summer School Course.

Subject to change

Please note, all Summer course offerings are subject to change at short notice and may no longer be offered if enrolment numbers are too low.

In addition, the timetable, assessments etc. may still change at short notice. As at date of publication, this brochure contains the best information we have. We will update the brochure if we have new information.

The Law Summer School Programme for 2025-26 has two terms:

- (i) November-December 2025 – four courses will initially be offered. Details appear below.
- (ii) January-February 2026 – four courses will initially be offered. Details appear below.

Enrolment applications for summer school courses opened on 8 September 2025 for summer school courses in Nov-Dec 2025 and open in October for summer school courses in Jan-Feb 2026.

How to enrol in your summer school course?

To apply successfully you must complete two requirements no later than the dates specified below:

1. Submit a 2025 change of enrolment via MyUC, and
2. Complete this form: Summer School 2025/2026 .

These two requirements are strictly applied and may differ from instructions published elsewhere.

LAWS351-25SU2(C) Nov-Dec Friday by 31 October 2025

LLAW320-25SU2(C) Nov-Dec Friday by 31 October 2025

LLAW325-25SU2(C) Nov-Dec Friday by 31 October 2025

LAWS358-25SU2(C) Nov-Dec Friday by 31 October 2025

LAWS339-26SU1(C) Jan-Feb Friday by 5 December 2025 (Limited Entry course)

LLAW317-26SU1(C) Jan-Feb Friday by 2 January 2026

LLAW306-26SU1(D) Jan-Feb Friday by 2 January 2026

LAWS380-26SU1(C) Jan-Feb Friday by 5 December 2025 (Limited Entry course)

Eligibility for Summer 300 level Law Courses

1. All students must be eligible to apply for enrolment in 300 level Law courses generally by having already passed, or be enrolled in, their remaining LAWS200 courses during semester two 2025.
2. To be eligible to commence a Summer 300 level law course a student must have passed at least one 300 level Law course in a semester prior to Summer 2025-26.

Allocation of Places in Limited Entry Law 300 level Summer School Courses

When demand by eligible students exceeds places in a particular course, preference will be given to final year students first, followed by penultimate students. If demand in each category of eligible students exceeds available places, allocation will be by random draw. Notwithstanding the outcome of any random draw, the Dean reserves the right to limit a student to one limited entry course.

Completing the two steps above – see “how to enrol” - is a strict requirement for enrolment in a Summer course because the information assists the determination of places in limited entry courses and the administration of courses run during a period when fewer staff are on campus.

Workload expectations

Please remember that your summer school courses are 15-point courses and similar to your semester courses you can expect a workload of 150 hours per course. Some of those hours will be accounted for through lectures, but the remaining portion is expected to be completed outside of lectures and workshops.

Effectively, one summer school course equals a four-week full-time job requirement. Hence the strong recommendation not to take more than one summer school course per term.

Questions?

If you have any questions, please email lawandjusticedegreeadvice@canterbury.ac.nz and include in the subject line: “Summer School enquiry”

Test Two: Thursday 4 December 2025 Open Book Onsite 5.00 pm – 7.00 pm

Course Description:

The law is now an integral part of sport. This course explores the application of numerous legal principles in a specialist environment, the uniqueness of which invites innovating and interesting legal arrangements. It is hoped that by the end of the course, students have a working knowledge of legal problems associated with sport. Class discussion is encouraged.

The lectures will be recorded.

While there are numerous “sports law” New Zealand cases, they remain uncategorised. I have therefore assembled relevant New Zealand cases according to the topics. The names of these relevant cases, together with the names of relevant overseas cases, will be posted on LEARN. You are expected to download these cases yourselves. They are a valuable resource in your future legal careers.

LLAW320-24SU2(C) ADVANCED WRITING SKILLS

Quiz 2 closes Wednesday 3 December 9am 10%

Writing Assignment: Friday 5 December 2025 30%

Final Writing

Assignment: Friday 12 December 2025 50%

Course Description:

This course opens the bonnet on the English language to demonstrate not only how it works, but also how to tune it. It teaches conscious practical skills that students can apply to all their writing. It will show students how to please and hold a reader. By teaching clarity of expression it will also foster clarity of thought. The ability to write well, with clarity of thought and expression, is an essential and valued skill for employers in legal practice and outside it. It is a key skill to acquire or polish as students prepare to graduate and look for employment.

Lectures will not be recorded.

This is a skills course in which students practise and develop writing skills during class, working with the lecturer. Students are expected to attend lectures in person.

Generative artificial intelligence (AI) text generators, such as ChatGPT, may not be used for any part of the course.

LLAW325-25SU2 (C) Special Topic: Global Value Chains: Access to Justice

Applications to enrol are now open

Course Co-ordinator: Dr Elsabe Schoeman

Students MUST Apply to Enrol, via a Change of Enrolment in MyUC and complete this form, by Friday 31 October 2025

Course Dates: Monday 10 November 2025 – Sunday 14 December 2025

Lecture Days/Times: Monday 10 November – Friday 5 December 2025
Monday, Tuesday and Thursday 2.00 pm to 4.00 pm

LLAW325 ASSESSMENT

Subject to change

First assignment: Website search for examples of Global Value Chains (10%)

Second assignment: Presentation of case in class (15%)

Third assignment: Presentation of ideas for final written assignment (25%)

Fourth assignment: Final written assignment (50%)

Course Description:

Global Value Chains (GVCs), accounting for 70% of international trade, encompass the full range of activities required to bring a product or a service from conception to end-use. GVCs are predominantly driven by big Multinational Corporations (MNCs) that spread their activities across the world through multiple subsidiaries – think mining, oil, tech, fashion – to source essential components (oil, rare minerals, etc) or to save on manufacturing costs (cheap labour, poorly regulated labour markets, etc). When victims suffer harm as a result of the activities of MNCs and their subsidiaries, access to justice is severely compromised by the transnational dimension and prohibitive costs of litigation, the inequality of litigating parties, and the lack of effective regulation at national and global level. This course explores access to justice by way of private international law and human rights initiatives, as those have played out in recent transnational cases.

The course will not be recorded.

Class discussion and participation are mandatory. Considering the multi-faceted and global nature of the course, student views and ideas are critical contributory factors to the understanding and overall successful completion of the course.

All case law will be discussed and analysed in detail in class. There will be significant group work: prescribed readings will be shared amongst groups to report back and discuss in class. As this is a dynamic, developing area of law, students will be expected to follow latest developments through recommended websites and report back to class. This will feed into the final written assignment.

LAWS358-25SU2 (C) The Rights of Indigenous Peoples

Applications to enrol are now open

Course Co-ordinator: Dr Shea Esterling

Students MUST Apply to Enrol, via a Change of Enrolment in MyUC and complete this form, by Friday 31 October 2025

Course Dates: Monday 10 November 2025 – Sunday 14 December 2025

Lecture Days/Times: Monday 10 November – Friday 12 December 2025

Monday, Wednesday: 2h lecture,
Tuesday, Thursday: 1h workshop
(note, no lectures and workshops in week of 24 November)

LAWS358 ASSESSMENT

Subject to change

Oral presentation:	Week of 1 December – attendance mandatory
Final exam:	12 December in class
Assessment 3:	tba

Course Description:

This course is designed to give students a solid understanding of the international legal frameworks for the protection and promotion of Indigenous rights by introducing core legal instruments and institutions. In particular, this course will focus on international human rights law, though presenting where appropriate frameworks from across a range of domestic jurisdictions including Aotearoa New Zealand inviting a comparative approach to the protection and promotion of Indigenous rights. This international subject matter will introduce students to a variety of historical and contemporary administrative, art, criminal, constitutional and property law issues which concern Indigenous Peoples. These cross jurisdictional and cross cutting issues will challenge students to think critically about the current transnational approach to Indigenous rights.

Course materials and assessments will be drawn from a variety of primary and secondary sources including cases, commentary, legislation, popular media, and other sources as appropriate.

The 2-hour lectures will be pre-recorded and expected to be watched before attending the workshops.

The corresponding workshop will be recorded. Note, the workshops are very interactive. The recording will not fully or properly capture the in-workshop activities that put into practice the lecture content.

Attendance for oral presentations is mandatory.

It is highly recommended that students come to workshops as recordings are poor substitutes for class attendance.

Mediation Assessment: Due 5.00 pm Monday 19 January 2026 (on Learn) (30%)

Course Description:

The purpose of the course is to provide students with a “starter course” in client interviewing, negotiation and mediation.

The focus of the course will be to provide students with knowledge and some of the practical skills that they will need when they commence practising law in the areas of civil/commercial negotiation and mediation.

The course will not be recorded.

DO NOT APPLY FOR THIS COURSE UNLESS YOU CAN BE PRESENT FOR ALL DAYS AND HOURS SET OUT ABOVE. The course depends on all students being present to undertake collaborative/interactive work in pair, trios etc.

The objectives of the course will include:

- Familiarising the students with the theory of client interviewing, negotiation and mediation;
- Teaching the students some practical skills in client interviewing, negotiation and mediation;
- The practical skills component of the course will include questioning techniques, advocacy skills and preparing documents such as file notes recording client interviews and litigation risk assessments. The students will also learn the relevant rules of professional responsibility;
- The practical skills will be delivered through the students in pairs and small groups, working on practising client interviews, problem scenarios, participating in a negotiation role play and preparing a written litigation risk assessment for a mediation;
- The assessments for the course will reflect the significant emphasis on knowledge and skills;
- There will be assessments for each part of the course content (client interviewing, negotiation and mediation);
- The course will be intensive and students are expected to do extra reading and work to prepare for the lectures and assessments outside of the teaching hours of 10am-5pm.

Note: lecture times may change at short notice to accommodate guest speakers

LLAW306 Assessment:

Subject to Change

Other assessments tbc

Final Online Exam: Thursday 5 February 2026

Course Description:

International disputes range from business-to-business disputes about a sale gone wrong, to (maritime) boundary disputes between two countries, to a Peruvian farmer who sues one of Germany's largest energy companies for its carbon footprint. This course familiarises the students with the different mechanisms to resolve an international dispute and some of the substantive laws that form the basis of international disputes, such as the UN Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods, the International Covenant of Civil and Political Rights, or the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Seas. Students will have the opportunity to get an overview of subjects such as private international law, international civil procedure, international arbitration, international human rights, law of the sea, international trade.

The Zoom sessions will be recorded.

However, the attendance for the guest Zoom lecture sessions will be mandatory. All effort will be made that those guest lectures are advertised early and are all at the same time and day of the week. However, given that the guest lecturers will be the leaders in their field and busy practitioners short notice changes might occur.

The course is a distance course. It requires students to be able to manage their own workload. The course requires students to engage with the online material themselves. The material is presented in modules which contain videos, readings and a quiz that tests the students on their understanding of the module. There also will be guest lectures by highly acclaimed international dispute resolution specialists.

Some of the assessment will involve group work.

There also will be Zoom drop-in sessions/tutorials each week.

LAWS380-26SU1 CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE

LAWS380 Assessment:

Subject to change

Report on Court Visit: date tbc (10%)

Essay: 23 January 2026 (40%)

Take Home Test: 19 January 2026 (50%)

Course Description:

The course aims to provide a practical overview of the law of criminal procedure. The course will examine each of the core stages in the criminal justice process, broadly following the scheme of the Criminal Procedure Act 2011. In focusing on these key aspects, the course is intended to provide students with an understanding of the procedure which may be useful to them in later employment.

Attendance is mandatory.

This is a practical course. It complements the papers offered on evidence, sentencing, and trial advocacy. It's designed to give students a real-world understanding of how criminal law operates. It will be particularly valuable for students who would like to find work either as a prosecutor or as defence counsel. The lectures are broken up into teaching and then group work on practical exercises, followed by discussion about those exercises. Students can expect guest lecturers from different barristers with expertise as prosecutors, defence, and appellate counsel.
